Nosheraan and Nosheen have a four-month old baby. They lost their home when the floods water hit their village in July 2010. As a beneficiary of the Pakistan Settlements Flood recovery Project funded by the government of Japan, they are very happy that they can move into their shelter soon. Right now they sleep in a tent, and it has been over a year since they started living in this arrangement. With the winter approaching, the shelter will provide warmth and protection over this family.

They stand happily in front of their shelter that is close to completion. Nosheraan is especially happy because he has been able to provide food for his family as he participated in the shelter construction by contributing his labour.
